WIN MORE HONORS IN SENIOR PLAY

Able Cast of High School
Actors Makes Hit With
"Captain Lettarblair."

Marguerite Merivale's three-act comedy, "Captain Lettarblair," scored a tremendous hit last evening as the vehicle of the present high school graduating class at the high school auditorium. The performance was greeted by a packed house.

Carl Prell and Gertrude Wiser shared the honors of the evening as the two winsome lovers.

Carl Prell, fitted to the role of the lovable Irish leader, "Captain Lettarblair," carried his part well. With his amusing Irish wit and his decidedly lovable nature, he not only captivated the hearts of his audience, but also of Miss Wiser, who played opposite him as "Frances Hadden."

Not all the honor should go to these two, as Walter Strang, cast as "Dean Ambrose," an eminent divine of the old school, was excellent in his difficult interpretation of the amusing old character of the dean. Maxine Ryer, as "Hyacinth Messiter," played opposite Strang, and her work was splendid.

Loren Knight carried the role of

"Francis Merivale," a country squire and suitor to the hand of "Fanny." Most of the amusement, outside of the "Jorkins" or "Smithers," the roles being played by Gerald Leeper and Joyce Lehman.

Bernice Shirk as "Polly," and Wallace Davis as "Mr. Seton," Fanny's guardian, were both good and deserve praise for their work. William Grimm and Robert Minkler also carried their roles well.

Following is the cast of characters: Captain Lettarblair, Carl Prell; Dean Ambrose, Walter Strang; Pinckney, the dean's private secretary, afterword a subaltern in the Irish fusiliers, William Grimm; Francis Merivale, a country squire, suitor to Fanny, Loren Knight; Mr. Seton, Fanny's guardian, Wallace Davis; Lord Winklow, of the Irish fusiliers, Robert Minkler; Smithers, a clerk in the office of Seton and Catesby, Joyce Lehman; Jorkins, a servant to Lettarblair, Gerald Leeper; Henry, a servant at the deanery, John Taylor; Francis Hadden, the dean's orphan niece, Gertrude Wiser; Hyacinth Messiter, the dean's love, Maxine Ryer; Polly Messiter, Hyacinth's niece, Bernice Shirk.

"TWELFTH NIGHT" HIT AT NOTRE DAME

University Club Actors in Shakespearean Roles Score Heavily.

Putting the every-day college life into the Shakespearean plays makes them not only exceedingly interesting but at times very amusing. This was demonstrated yesterday afternoon at the University of Notre Dame when the University Dramatic club presented Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," or commonly known as his Christmas play. The play has five acts and nine scenes.

To those who delight in the artistry and technique of little things well done, nothing could be more satisfying than the acting of Charles J. McCauley as Olivia. This is the first time that McCauley has taken a part in dramatics at Notre Dame. Frederick George Slackford, in the leading role of Duke Orsino, was well fitted for the part. The part of brother and sister, namely Sebastian and Viola, were taken by Edward G. Lindemann and Frank P. Goodall, respectively, their work proving most satisfying to the large audience that filled Washington hall.

Giant Makes Hit.
With a laugh that would please a pessimist Erich Hans DeFrees, the six-foot-seven giant of the university, took the part of Sir Andrew Aguecheek and added the real spice which makes some of Shakespeare's plays most fascinating. With his partner, Sir Toby Belch, as taken by Herman A. Cook, the Cook-DeFrees team was stopped many times by the outbursts of hearty applause. Frank C. Holslag as Antonio and William B. Meuser as Malvolio acted their difficult parts with the ease of professional actors. Richard E. Lightfoot appeared for the second time this year on the university stage, taking a feminine role; yesterday he took the part of Maria and was up to his usual standard of good acting. Austin A. McNichols took the difficult part of the clown with great ease.

The support of the leading characters was exceptionally good. Two minims, James Edward Barry, Jr., and Hubert B. Peunet, arrayed as pages, gave a pleasing touch to the play. Other characters were portrayed by the following students: Fabian, Hugh William O'Neill; Sea Captain, Rigney Joseph Sackley; Valentine, Thomas Charles Kelly; Curio, Delmar J. Edmondson; gentleman, Harold M. McCullough; officers, Robert G. McGuire and Charles L. Cook; ladies, Francis Jennings Vardulak and Arthur James Moore. The play was given under the direction of Prof. Emmett G. Lenihan, the dramatic director of the university. During the afternoon the music was furnished by the university orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Frank Derrick.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS WAR TALES

Frank Holslag Gives Interesting Accounts of His Experiences.

An evening of real entertainment, during which Frank Holslag of Notre Dame told of his experiences on the battlefields of Europe, marked the dedication of the new Kable banquet hall, W. Washington av., by the Rotary club and a large number of guests Wednesday night. The dinner and entertainment was furnished by David Kable of Toledo, owner of the Kable restaurants, and O. A. Clark, manager of the local establishments.

Mr. Holslag's talk was entertaining as well as instructive. During his address, he told of the first days of the war and of later events in the struggle. At the outbreak of the conflict he went to Europe and offered his services to the various countries. He said that each one of them demanded that he give medical attention to only the soldiers of that particular country. He refused to do this and worked as an independent Red Cross man.

Tells of Teuton Preparation.

Germany's preparedness for war was brought out clearly by Mr. Holslag. He related many incidents of how that country had prepared even in the enemy's country. One of these was a story of a road built across a marsh in France. He said that 15 years ago a number of capitalists started to build a railroad across this marsh and finally abandoned the project. While a battle was being fought in that vicinity during the present war, a road made of large boulders was discovered by a French soldier.

Conditions in the trenches were described by the speaker, who told of the difference between the trenches now and those of the early days of the war. Conditions in the hospitals were described.

Frank E. Hering acted as toastmaster. A coronet solo was given by Miss Mildred Lane and Elton Crepaup gave several vocal selections. Stories were told by John Noble.

Preceding the banquet the Rotarians paraded through the Oliver hotel and down Washington street bedecked in high hats of black and white design. They were worn during the banquet also.

RECEIVER SALE OF TOY FIRM POSTPONED

The receiver sale of the machinery and equipment of the Otaga Toy Co., which was to have taken place yesterday at 3 o'clock, was postponed by order of the circuit court. This action was taken on representations made by the American Trust Co., South Bend Dowel Co., Loughman & Loughman and other creditors objecting to the low values placed on the inventory filed by the receiver.

A further representation was that items to the value of $2,000 were not shown in the inventory.

HOUSE BURNS DOWN

Fire starting from a defective chimney destroyed the home of Warden Finch, 532 N. Eleventh st., River Park, Thursday morning at 1 o'clock. When the blaze was discovered by Marion, the little daughter, the roof was ready to fall in. She aroused the family who escaped in their night clothes.

The damage is estimated at about $1,600, partially covered by insurance. It is owned by Vernon Hastings. The home of Edward Gibbons, next door, was considerably damaged by the flames and smoke. South Bend companies responded to the alarm.

Notre Dame News

This morning at 8 o'clock in Our Lady of the Sacred Heart chapel first communion day and confirmation exercises took place. The regular Ascension day program around the quadrangle preceded the services in the church. The procession was headed by the university band, followed by the students of the university and the first communicants bearing lighted candles. Following the students and those who received confirmation were the officiating clergymen and acolytes.

The solemn high mass was sung by the Very Rev. president of the university, Fr. John Cavanaugh, and he was assisted by Rev. Fr. Matthew Walsh and Matthew Schumacher, C. S. C., as deacon and sub-deacon respectively. Fr. William Conner and Mr. Monahan were the masters of ceremony. Special music was also arranged for the occasion. Right Rev. Bishop McAdams of Rockford, Ill., arrived at the university last evening and administered the sacrament of confirmation and pontificated at the mass. The bishop also delivered the sermon of the day.

The "Possum Army" left Notre Dame yesterday morning over the Michigan Central for San Jose park, Lawton, Mich., where they will have their annual military camping season. Accompanying the Carroll hallers were the officers of the University battalion and bugle corps. Capt. R. R. Stogsdall will have charge of the camp assisted by Sgt. Campbell, who left for Lawton this morning. Rev. James Quinlan, rector of Carroll hall, will be the chaplain of the camp and a regular military program has been arranged for the outing. For the past two weeks Brother Hugh and a squad of workmen have been erecting tents and setting the park in shape for the summer outing. Fr. Joseph Burke, prefect of discipline, who made the trip with the boys returned to the university this morning. The annual Art exhibit is being held in the rotunda of the main building. On the first floor are the theses works of the architectural department. Many old designs are on display and are attracting a great amount of attention, one especially a building to commemorate the first centennial of Indiana is exceptionally interesting. The designs are the work of the seniors in the class of architecture under the direction of Prof. Kervick.

On the second floor are the works in free hand drawing, water coloring, pencil, oil and charcoal design. These specimens are an example of the work accomplished by the department of free hand drawing which is under the direction of Prof. John Worden. Special display racks have been arranged on these floors and the works will be on display until after the commencement exercises.

Members of the Lone Star State club will return home in a special car this year according to plans made at their final meeting of the year held last evening. All of the students in the state of Texas are expected to make up the party as well as a few going to parts further south. The special car will go directly to the state capital.

SEEKS $2,000 DAMAGES

Suit to recover $2,000 for injuries alleged to have been received through the negligent driving of an automobile by August Truys has been instituted in superior court by Frank Laskowski. The defendant, according to the complaint, was driving his automobile at 30 miles an hour, striking the plaintiff at Division st. on May 16 of this year.

Class of 1916 In Noteworthy Record

To say that the class of boys and girls who will be graduated from South Bend High school Friday evening is the largest class which has ever graduated from the school, is to place emphasis upon a mark of distinction which is by no means the greatest of which the class may boast.

The class of 1916 has been noteworthy for the spirit which it has displayed throughout its high school career. It is the first class in the history of the school which organized in its freshman year and maintained its organization throughout its four years.

Perhaps the thing most exemplary of the class spirit is the memorial which it is leaving to the school, a memorial both original and valuable as an inspirational force among future high school students. This memorial consists of a fund in perpetuity of $100, money which was raised through the efforts of the students themselves, and which will

will have two valedictorians, Miss Edith Emmons, and Franklin Schurtz, who have tied with an average of 498 out of a possible 500. Miss Nellie Robbins, salutatorian, achieved an average of 487. The following members, in addition, are especially deserving of mention for scholarship: Ruth Sponholtz, 481; Gertrude Wiser, 480; Margaret Talbert, 476; Florence Bennett, 476; Virginia Schneider, 472; Edward Post, 467; Esther Kirkpatrick, 466; Agnes White, 464; Bernice Augustine, 462; Joyce Lehman, 460; Floyd Zimmer, 455; Arva Yeagley, 454, and Bernhard Keltner, 451.

The class officers are Carl Prell, president; Catherine Guthrie, vice president; Mary Livengood, secretary, and Agnes White, treasurer. Until holiday time Albert MacDonald led the class as president, steering it capably over the first months of its organization.

be invested at 5 per cent interest, the annual income to be used to purchase two medals each year, to be awarded, one to a boy and one to a girl, for "leadership." For the sake of their own president, Carl Prell, who has been a strong leader throughout his high school career, the class has decided to pocket its modesty and award its first leadership medal to him. As to the girl who will receive the honor this year, teachers and students have been as yet unable to decide. Three or four girls are under consideration.

Governing of Awards.
The qualities which will govern the award have been set down as follows, partially by Mr. Sims, the principal, and partially the suggestion of the class:

1. Scholarship, 20 per cent.—In this the student having an even distribution of medium high grades will be given preference over the one starting in one or two subjects and falling lower in others.

2. General Improvement, 15 per cent.—This will be determined by the teachers who have been sponsors for the work of the student throughout his or her high school course.

3. Representation of School, 15 per cent.—This will involve active participation in class and school scholastic and athletic teams, inter-scholastic contests, debates, spelling matches, extemporaneous speaking, declamation, membership in orchestra, school clubs, participation in school and assembly programs, dramatic performances, place on the Interlute staff, class officerships, chairmanships and captaincies, and representation of the school in collegiate contests.

4. Leadership, 40 per cent.—This will be determined by the students:

(a) Initiative in class and school activities.

(b) Executive and administrative ability.

(c) Perserverance and successful completion of work undertaken.

(d) Originality and resourcefulness.

(e) Courtesy and gentility in conduct, speech and manner.

(f) Address—The ability to meet people.

(g) Reliability, responsibility, dependability.

(h) Good example.

(i) Honors, class officerships.

(j) Social development—overcoming environment, etc.

Duplicates of the medals to be presented each year at commencement time, together with the above rules governing the award, will be permanently posted in the main corridor at the school to serve as a constant inspiration to leadership among all future students of the school.

The $100 fund for this memorial was raised by means of lectures, a motion picture show, the Oberlin Glee club concert, a penny fair, and a rummage sale, in the consummation of which the class as a whole has shown all the qualities of enterprise and leadership which it will require of future recipients of the "Class of 1916 Medal for Leadership." In addition to raising money for this purpose, the class contributed $150 to the Interlute fund, the amount necessary to save the school paper from untimely demise. At Thanksgiving time the class gave a sumptuous dinner in the high school lunch room to 200 poor little children. As juniors they prepared and distributed an unusually large number of Christmas baskets.

In scholarship the class has not been backward, as is evidenced by the number of students who may be given honorable mention for exceptionally high grades. The class
